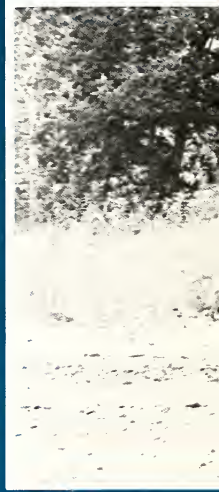
Chicago State University

Chicago, Illinois 60628

Chicago State University is a place of people on the go.



We travel to the campus by foot, car, bus, train . . .

. . . from different backgrounds and neighborhoods of the city.

We bring the influence of the city with us, as scientists, . . .

Woodcut by Barbara Ward

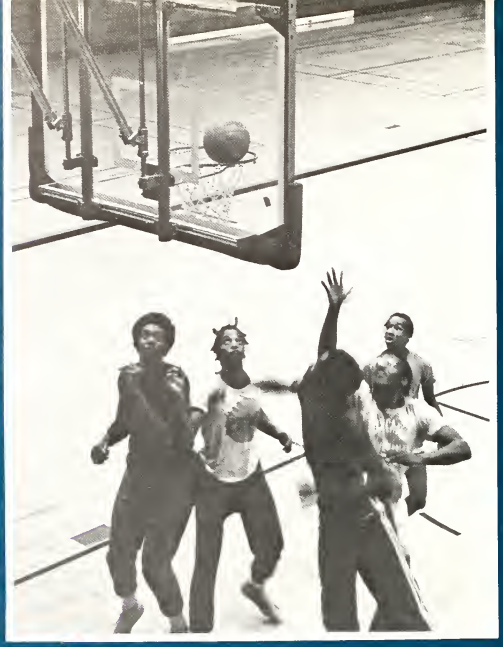
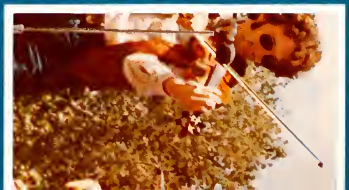
. . . as artists, . . .

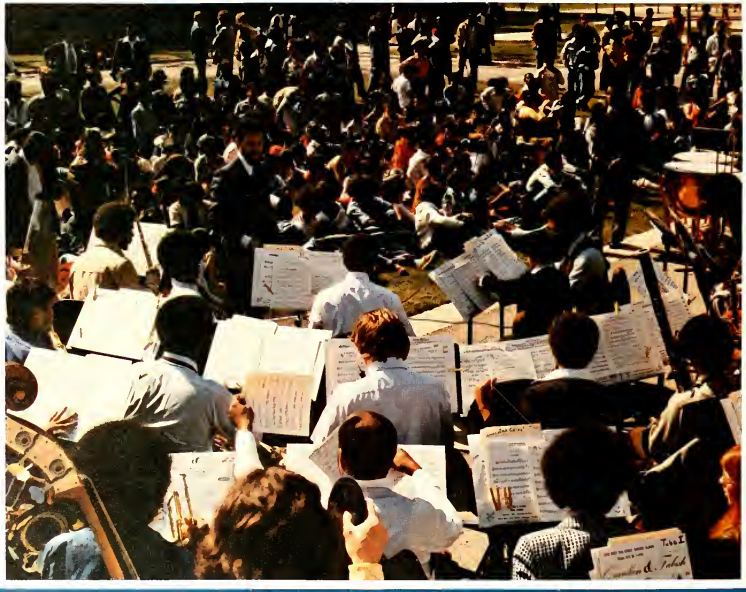


. . . athletes. . . .



. . . musicians, . .

. . for a common goal . . . knowledge.



Once we're here the campus opens up and offers a variety of activities that suite individual needs . . .

. . . whether it be a relaxing conversation with friends or strenuous competitive recreation with fellow students.

To those people who recognize and appreciate beauty,
our campus presents itself as a transformation of colors with each new season.

Chicago State University is a school that offers an abundance of enjoyable and rewarding experiences.

Benjamin H. Alexander—President

As I sat quietly waiting in the President's office for an interview with Dr. Alexander, I couldn't help but notice the mural that covers one entire wall. I was very impressed, for it displayed the growth and progess of our university. I was also amazed by the numerous changes our school has gone through. My thoughts were interrupted when Dr. Alexander entered the room. Immediately his smile and warm greetings filled the room and I began to feel very relaxed about talking to him. I asked him questions that he no doubt had been asked a thousand times before, but he graciously answered them and added his own personal feelings about Chicago State. This is when I began to feel the concern and enthusiasm he has for the school and its people. Dr. Alexander is a man who believes that nothing is "Impossible." Talking with him, I began to believe it to be true. He has taken a school that once looked hopeless and raised its standards and goals. He is filled with much determination to develop a multiracial institute to become the finest in the country. He is also working earnestly toward creating an atmosphere of people working together and helping each other. After our interview, I left, filled with enthusiasm that had spilled over from Dr. Alexander. I have to admit it's quite contegious. Dr. Alexander is just what the people of this university need. We all should be very proud to have him as caretaker of our future in education. —Joanne Anderson, Copy Editor

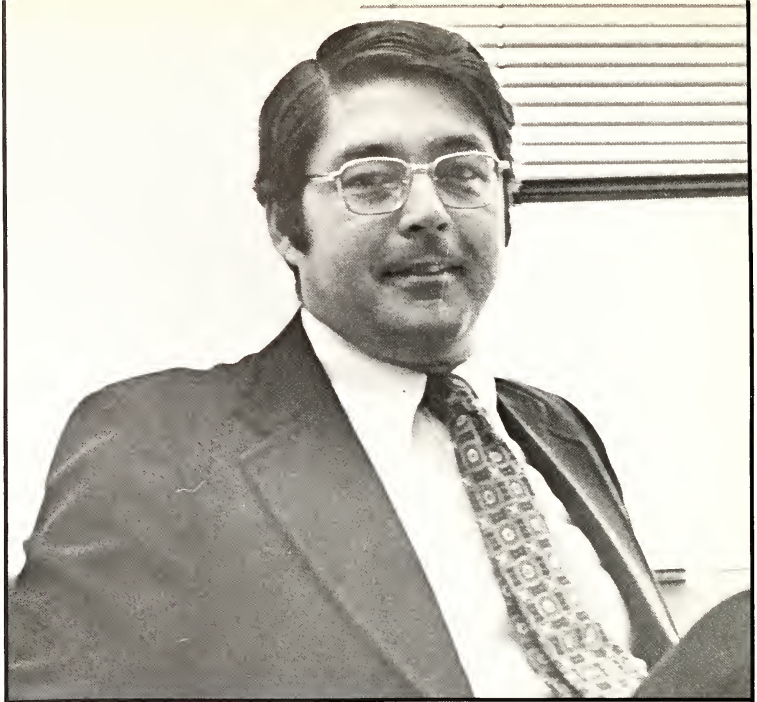
"If I were to try to read, much less answer all the attacks made on me, this shop might as well be closed for any other business. I do the very best I know—the very best I can; and I mean to keep doing so until the end.

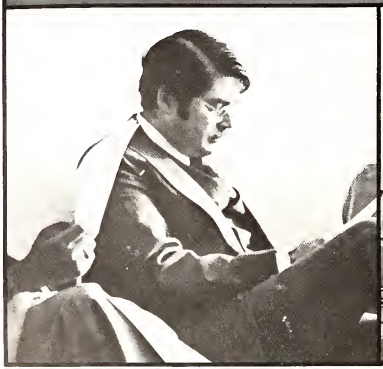
"If the end brings me out all right, what is said against me won't amount to anything. If the end brings me out wrong, ten angles swearing I was right would make no difference."

From a conversation at the White House with President Lincoln.

Allan De Giulio—Academic Affairs

Vice President for Academic Affairs is Dr Allan DeGiulio. He has been with the university since 1975 and as Chief Academic officer of the University he has numerous responsibilities to the people of this institute Some of these obligations include: the curriculum, the teaching faculty, developing budgets, coordinating personnel, advising existing academic programs, organizing undergraduate and graduate degree programs, and interacting with different legislative, governmental and community groups. This position certainly requires a great deal of time, energy and determination to get things done. Dr. De Giulio has accomplished just that and will continue to provide the university with excellent service in the future.



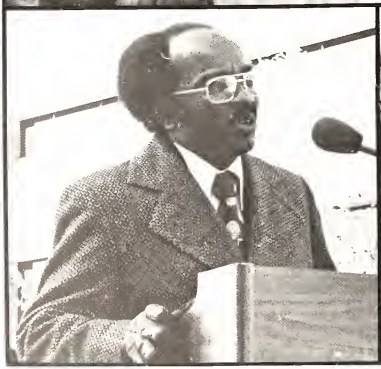


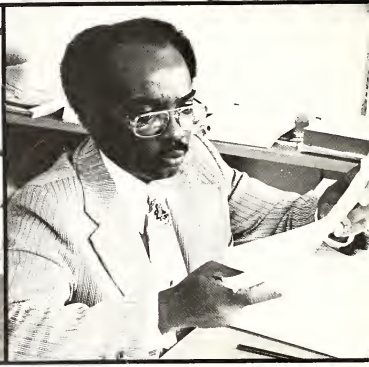
Arthur Albert—Administrative Affairs

Dr. Arthur Albert has been with Chicago State University for nine years. As of October 1, 1976 he was appointed Vice President for Administrative Affairs. Previously he was Assistant to the President for planning and budgeting and Director of Institutional Research. Since his new appointment his responsibilities have increased. They include various projects that are for the improvement of the university. Some of these responsibilities are budgetary and financial operations, security, transportation, parking, institutional research, the office of civil service personnel, the university center and capitol projects. Dr. Elbert also holds the title of Assistant Professor of Psychology and is presently teaching one course.

Eric Winston—Student Affairs

Dr. Eric Winston has been with Chicago State University since September of 1975, when he was appointed Vice President of Student Affairs. Dr. Winston's major concern is to provide a range of activities and services for the students and the faculty. In his programs he tries to deal with the wants, needs and over all problems of the student. He also wishes to create active involvement by everyone, throughout the entire school year. Dr. Winston is totally concerned with the welfare of the people who attend this institution.





Research and Development—Elmer Washington

Dr. Elmer Washington was appointed the new Vice President for Research and Development as of October 1, 1976. He has served as Dean of the Division of Natural Sciences and Mathematics and more recently, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. With his new elevation, Dr. Washington sights new goals for the presently established Nursing and Business Programs and is also working diligently on proposals for an Allied Health Program and Medical School Program. Other plans that are of great importance to him for the improvement and development of our university is the current proposal for an evening educational program. This exciting new venture for our school, will not only provide a learning center for hundreds of people but it will also utilize existing facilities to their fullest. Dr. Washington has helped to plan all these tremendous projects, which can only lead toward growth and expansion for our school.

College of Arts and Sciences

The College of Arts and Sciences is now headed by Acting Dean Babette F. Inglehart, taking the place of Dr. Elmer Washington, Vice President for Research and Development. The program is designed to produce graduates who are broadly educated and who have special knowledge and skills in their major and a competence in a minor field. The Chairpeople of the following departments are: Victor Sorell, Art; Ann N. Bond, Biological Sciences; Charles E. Mosley, Black Studies; Jesse D. Green, English and Speech; Irving Cutler, Geography; Edmund W. Kearney, History; Richard F. Johnsonbaugh, Mathematics; Salomon Flores, Modern Languages; Frank Garcia, Music; Richard A. Treptow, Physical Sciences; Ann Groves, Psychology; Warren Roth, Social Sciences.

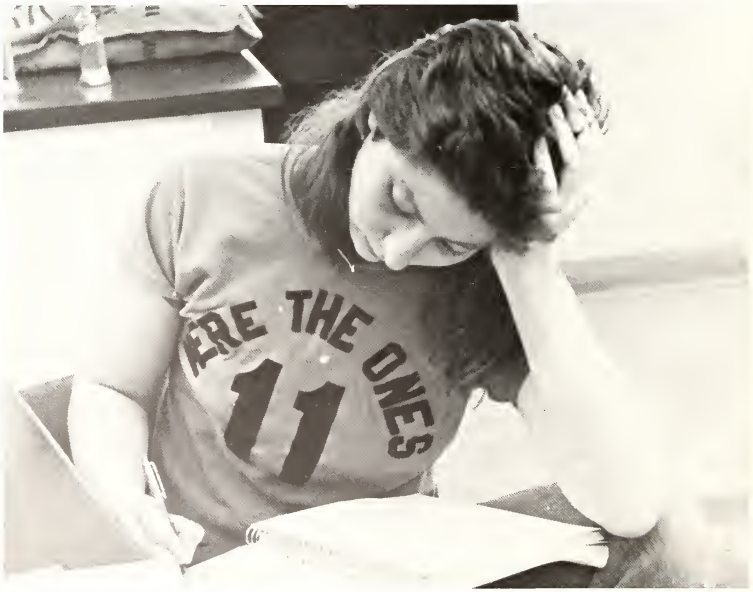
College of Business Education

Dr Louise Taylor has been Acting Dean of the College of Business and Administration since August, 1976 Since that time there have been some revisions in the College. The Acting Assistant Dean is Mr Joseph M Goodman. Dr John C. Knorr is the head of the Finance and Accounting Departments. Mr Eldridge T Freeman Jr. is the Director of Business Laboratory Program and also the Management and Marketing Departments

Dr Taylor's background includes a Masters Degree from the University of Chicago and she is working on a Masters Degree in Economics Her professional experience includes teaching for the Chicago Board of Education and Chairman for Student Affairs in the College of Business and Administration.

College of Education

The dean of Chicago State's College of Education: Barbara Kardas, assistant dean Evonne Blakely and the many Chairpeople working with them are literally the administrative backbone of C.S.U.! They are responsible for both students' and teachers' programs. They make sure that the classes offered at registration meet the students needs. They also monitor teachers programs, so there are instructors to teach the courses offered. The College of Education's many other duties include forming a grievance committee for the purpose of investigating student complaints. They also do evaluations for the faculty and are responsible for procedures and policies at the departmental level. Needless to say, the deans and acting chairpeople of the College of Education do a great deal for the students and faculty. Along with their many responsibilities they also teach classes and act as advisors to students.

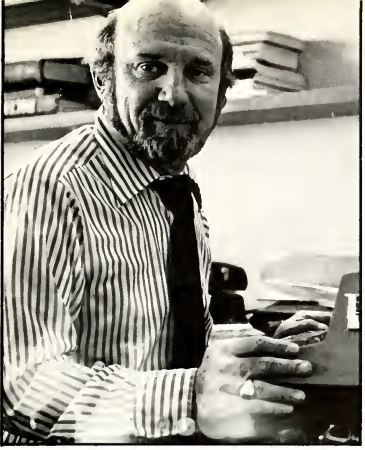


Graduate College

The Graduate Division is headed by Dr. Richard Prince. The main purpose is to furnish leadership training and retraining for educational and other roles through performance in and evaluation of these roles. Most of the programs are strongly career orientated for those who seek an education as a means to upward social and economic mobility. The program of study includes a Master of Science in Education, a Master of Arts, a Master of Science, and a Non-Degree study. The College of Arts and Sciences has made available to graduate students a Master of Arts in English, Geography, or History. A Master of Science is available in Corrections, Mathematics, or Natural Science-Biological Science. Another program that is offered is a Master of Science in Education in School Guidance. The College of Education has programs in Library Science and Communications Media, Occupational Education, Special Education, Teaching Reading, or Urban Education.

College of Nursing

Dr. Virginia Ford is the dean of the College of Nursing. One of the college's main purpose is to provide students with a broad background in liberal arts and sciences. The instructors that help with this are Louise Carlton, Special Assistant to the Dean; Mary Allen, Assistant Director of Academic Reinforcement Program; Burlean Burris, Viviene Dawkins, Mildred Hull, Rochelle Lubarsky, Zenaida Soriano, Delores Williams, Aljurita Harley, Beverly Harper, Cleve Holt, and Audrey Henry. Currently the college is concerned with quality education for all nursing students. They are concentrating all their energy on upgrading the ciriculum and its review for accreditation. A baccheloriate degree in nursing is the degree that is obtainable. Diploma and associate degree nurses can also continue their education.



L. Patrick Stanton was named Assistant to President Benjamin H. Alexander in the Fall of 1976. He is not new to the University. The position that he held before this time was Director of University Relations. When he first came to Chicago State he was the Director of Alumni Services. Pat Stanton feels that Chicago State is doing a good job educating the urban student. This is done through the high academic standards and the multi-racial mix of administration, faculty, and students.

Student Center

The "K" building is the University Center, scene of leisure time activities at Chicago State. Offices of Student Activities, Student Government, Tempo, the student newspaper, Emblem, the yearbook, cultural clubs, such as the Afro-American Organization and the Latin American Student Association, are located here.

The "K" building is the core of student life here on campus, with a variety of activities which include movies, dances, lectures, and special events such as the Homecoming Dance, Las Vegas Night, the Mural Dedication, Career Day, Science Fairs, awards dinners, and other events.

The Student Center also houses recreational facilities such as tv, ping-pong and pool tables, snack areas, the Cafeteria, Mezzanine restaurant, the Bookstore, a dance area, and arcade games. Various events are planned throughout the year to take advantage of the space available on campus in the K building. Students and faculty members can meet for a sandwich or a full meal, relax and enjoy the company of friends, or even catch 40 winks after the studying is done.

Las Vegas Night

Las Vegas Night was sponsored by Coach Bill Adams and the Chicago State Swim Team and was held on November 13, 1976 in the K building. It began at 7:00 p.m. and lasted until about 12:30 p.m. The evening was a huge success and everyone who attended had an enjoyable time of gambling and eating. When you entered the gambling area you were given $1,-000.00 in play money. There were several tables of black jack, roulette, craps and wheel of fortune that gave you a chance to either win or loose. The families of the swimmers helped by serving the refreshments, which consisted of hot beef sandwiches and soft drinks. Toward the end of the night an auction was held. This gave the winners a chance to bid on various prizes. Some of these included a television, camera kits, earings, candles, games and imported liquors.

"Fertility"

In November of 1976, the surrealistic sculpture created by Associate Professor of Art, Ausbra Ford was unveiled. The work is entitled, "Fertility of the Mind, Soul, and Body" This work possesses an array of vibrant colors, all of which represent different symbols. Ausbra Ford explained that red symbolizes life, force and energy, green is for order, yellow for the mind, orange for enthusiasm and white for purity and rebirth. The ceremony was attended by President Alexander, Vice President Winston, Vice President Washington, James Fleming, Faculty of the Art Department and interested students.

Thanksgiving Dinner

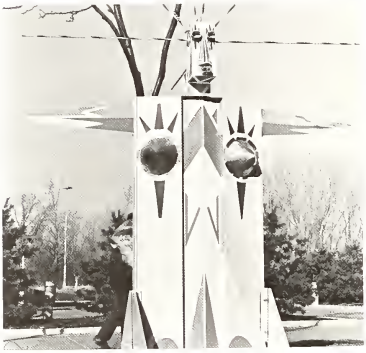
A Senior Citizens Thanksgiving Dinner was held on campus in the K building on November 20, 1976. Hundreds of senior citizens came from all different parts of the Chicago area for this festive occasion. The tables were decorated with various fall colors which brightened up the dining area. The meal consisted of turkey, dressing, potatoes, green beans, rolls, pumpkin pie and hot coffee, tea or milk. President Alexander made an opening speech and the campus minister joined us together in prayer. Faculty members and students pitched in and helped serve the dinner and latter helped clean up. It truely was a day to be thankful for.

Mural Dedication

C.S.U. was honored by the installation and dedication of an eight peice portable mural executed by Latin artist Ray Patlan, now on display in the "K" building. Mr. Patlan, who has studied at the Art Institute and now teaches at the University of California, was unable to attend the dedication. In attendance however, were Pres. Alexander and the Vice-Presidents, Art faculty members, including Department Chairman Vic Sorell, and members of L.A.S.A. who performed at this event.

Coretta Scott King

On Thursday, December 2, 1976, Chicago State University was honored by the visit of Mrs. Coretta Scott King, wife of the late Civil Rights leader, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Mrs. King spoke in behalf of the Martin Luther King Jr. Center for Social Change, which is based in Atlanta, Georgia. Mrs. King is president of that organization. She discussed the problems of unemployment, the civil rights movement, and other significant issues. Mrs. King also discussed historical events of the 1950's which lead to the events of today. Mrs. King told of her experiences with Dr. King, and shared insights about her personal life with Dr. King, speaking of his dreams of peace and brotherhood for all men. In a special message to graduating C.S.U. seniors, Mrs. King instructed them to work for the benefit of mankind, but not to forget one's self. She stated, "You are the only one that can do it. So go ahead and do it." Mrs. King's address was preceded by a large press conference, attended by local and national media sources, and much of the C.S.U. administration and student body.



Art Exhibits

Like the Music Department, the Art Department of Chicago State sponsors very fine exhibits for the C.S.U. Community. It uses the new Gallery in the "D" building, the President's foyer, and various site around the campus. The Art Department displays works from artists from the Chicago area and from around the country. Students and faculty members also show their work from time to time. The displays include works of art done in many different mediums, including paintings and drawings, ceramics, fiber and woven works, sculpture, and photography. New works this year included an exhibit of art done by Chicago area artists, and exhibit of faculty work, Charles Swedlund color photography, and student shows of photo/graphic and various other work. A sculpture by Ausbra Ford was recently installed for permanent display on the campus, and a mural by Ray Patlan was installed in the University Center. There has been an abundance of art created and displayed this year to inspire and delight all at C.S.U.

Concerts

The C.S.U. Community has been very fortunate this year in being exposed to a wide variety of musical talent. Sponsored by the Office of Student Activities and the Music Department, these concerts bring a fine level of entertainment to those who wish to take advantage of it. Melba Moore, Eddie Harris, Bunky Green and the C.S.U. Jazz Ensemble, the C.S.U. Choir, and various C.S.U. faculty members and students are among those who have performed. There has been a style of music to please almost anyone's taste. The Music Department has sponsored a number of student recitals performing for many occasions, and utilizing not only the Auditorium, but also various sites on campus when weather permits. These open air concerts are a very enjoyable break from classes. The Music Department has worked very hard this year to bring quality performances to Chicago State.

Melba Moore

Melba Moore came to Chicago State University on February 17, 1977 to perform in concert, as part of the Homecoming festivities. She appeared on stage in the Auditorium in "E" building, before an excited audience of 150 people. The Jazz Horizons were her back-up band. She sang a number of her favorite selections, including "I've Got Love", "He Ain't Heavy, He's My Brother", and "Man in My Life." Everyone enjoyed the concert immensely, and applauded Melba Moore with a standing ovation.

Homecoming

The 1977 Chicago State University Homecoming Dance was held on campus on Friday evening, February 18, 1977, in the "K" building. The evening, which is the climax of the Homecoming events, began at 9:00 p.m., with a chicken and roast beef dinner. When the dinner was over, the music started and everyone headed for the dance floor. The theme was a disco setting and the music was provided by the "Baheilias Express." During the evening, Shirley Fentress, a senior at Chicago State, was crowned the 1977 Homecoming Queen. The dance was over at 2:00 a.m., and a memorable time was had by all.

Gov. Thompson

Governor Jim Thompson and Republican Mayoral candidated Dennis H. Block made a surprise visit to our campus on May 12, 1977 to view the University. The entire campus was in an excited uproar as Block and Thompson, along with President Alexander and other campus administrators, toured the classrooms and offices of the school. Members of the news media in Chicago were also present. President Alexander presented both men with mugs imprinted with "Beautiful Chicago State University." Gov. Thompson challenged Pres. Alexander to a racquetball game, exclaiming that he would increase the C.S.U. budget if Pres. Alexander wins.

Graduation

Despite the bitter cold and the falling temperatures, over 400 graduates received their degrees at Chicago State University's 295th Commencement Exercises on January 8, 1977.

The Commencement address to the graduates was delivered by United Nations Ambassador designate Andrew Young. Both the graduates and the audience of friends and relatives listened attentively to Mr. Young's remarks on the future of the graduates and the economic state of the world. The list of dignitaries attending the ceremony included Chicago's Mayor Michael Bilandic, Senator Richard Newhouse, Representative A. H. Caldwell, and four other Chicago City Councilmen. During the Exercised, George E. Johnson, President of Johnson Products Company, Inc., was awarded an honorary degree. Mr. Johnson is president of a foundation which is responsible for $1 million in business scholarships for minority students.

Swim Meets

Saturday, December 4, 1976 marked the opening of C.S.U.'s Men's Intercollegiate swim team 1976-77 season. Sen. Richard Newhouse was on hand to open the meet and to accept a plaque for his past efforts and support from Ferrell Daste, president of the Swim Club Parents Organization. Their opponents were #3 ranked Drury College. During this meet Fred Evans broke the record he established a month before at the Racine A.A.U. invitational. (Below) Mike Flemister and John Ebito also gave fantastic performances, in the diving and 50 and 100 yard freestyle events, respectively.

Education is more than the acquisition of facts, it is the discovering of concepts and of one's self. This learning process does not only exist in the classroom, but also in the world around us. Many of the ideals we acquire in our lifetime come from everyday encounters with people. Our college education should open our minds to the importance of all individuals and their different perspectives on life. Being able to learn from everyday experiences is a key to growing.

Some of the changes we have experienced in growing have been so subtle that we absorbed them without realizing it. Other changes were so obvious that we took them on with an air of enlightenment. Opening our minds to new concepts and emotions is as stimulating as a cool breeze rushing through our bodies. This sensation should remain with us in every aspect of our life. No matter how trivial or significant the task is, it should be approached with wisdom and optimism. The world of tomorrow is ours if we can take wisdom and blend it with our imagination. Our education is destined to leave its mark on us. Now we must go into the world and make our mark for future generations.

Take time —— to think. .

Time is one element in life that won't fail you. It is yours and with it your dreams and futures. You'll only keep up to it if you go your own pace and not to anyone elses. Be true to yourself. Many people strive for high ideals and include your only when they're failing; therefore, keep interested in your own career. It is yours alone and work to be proud of. Avoid people who ridicule your actions for they are vexations to your soul. However don't be dismayed of what beauty a human being beholds and the love one may attain from them. Love everyone unconditionally including yourself. You'll be amazed at the impact of happiness you can bestow on another human being with just a smile. Love is perennial as the earth and radiant as the sun.

Take time —— to be happy!

It is hard to explain the fascination of image-making to a nonartist. The physical act is a relatively simple procedure which anyone can learn to do passably well. It only becomes difficult, and engrossing, when the image itself begins to capture your imagination.

It is also true, that you will have to involve your emotions as well as body and mind, if you want yourself and your art to amount to very much and to grow.

The only artists who don't grow are the ones who don't work. You can't become a great artist or even a good one, by simply thinking about it.

There are a few who feel a commitment, who have ideals, who have emotions, who became involved. To those, this book should be dedicated.

They will continue to grow.
